TITLE: General Plan Update: Introducing Refreshed Goals and Policies in the Arts and Culture Element and Historical Resources Element

RECOMMENDATION:

The draft Arts and Culture Element was originally introduced to the City Arts Commission at the September 11, 2025, meeting. After Commission discussion, staff was directed to return on October 9 to provide an overview and to include introduction of the draft Historical Resources Element. Staff recommends that the Commission:

- a) receives and files the draft Elements; and
- b) forms an ad hoc committee consisting of Chair Heather Ignatin, Vice Chair Vanessa Moore, and Commissioner John Blom to review the draft Elements and to return to the November meeting with recommended comments for full Commission consideration.

DISCUSSION:

The current Arts and Culture Element and Historical Resources Element are both important and unique to Newport Beach but not required by State law. They serve to place emphasis on Newport Beach's robust arts and culture offerings, and its important history. Together, they set forth a decision-making framework for the maintenance and enhancement of the City programming, as well as continuing to raise awareness and recognize the early beginnings and integral historical components that are meaningful to the community.

As directed at the September 11 meeting, the purpose of this item is to reintroduce the Arts and Culture Element alongside the introduction of the draft Historical Resources Element for Commission review. The attachments are considered a first draft of the update and are not fully formatted with graphics and exhibits. As referenced below, the Existing Conditions and Background Analysis Report prepared for each element serves as contextual information that will be provided alongside the goals and policies for reference.

To make the review more efficient, staff is recommending the formation of an ad hoc committee, which would review the draft Elements and provide consolidated comments for the Commission's consideration at the November meeting. Once finalized, those comments would be forwarded on to staff and the General Plan Advisory Committee for consideration.

Staff will bring back final refined drafts of the Elements for formal review and support from the Commission later this year or early 2026.

Since this item is similar to what was presented at the September 11 meeting, additional commissioners may be present, so the same information on the General Plan and the update process has been provided in the “Background” section below for reference.

BACKGROUND:

A General Plan is a long-term document that acts as a guide for future development and is used as the foundation for decision-making on the physical development of a community. It contains goals that set values and direction, policies that guide decision-making, and programs to carry out the actions needed to achieve the goals. The General Plan is required by State law and is used by local governments to make decisions about land use, housing, transportation, infrastructure, and parks, among other issues. While planning horizons vary, it typically sets direction for the next 20-30 years. The City of Newport Beach (City) General Plan was last comprehensively updated in 2006 – nearly 20 years ago.

In 2019, the City Council initiated its comprehensive review and update; however, due to the challenging and unprecedented 6th Cycle Regional Housing Needs Assessment (RHNA), City staff was directed to pivot focus toward the Housing Element and Circulation Element. With the adoption and certification of the Housing Element in 2022, staff continued toward implementing the Housing Element but returned focus to the comprehensive update.

In early 2022, as the Housing Element was wrapping up, the City Council formed and seated the three-member General Plan Update Steering Committee (GPUSC), which is chaired by Nancy Gardner. The primary purpose of the GPUSC is to guide the larger General Plan Advisory Committee (GPAC) and to report to the City Council. The GPAC was formed and seated in early 2023, is currently made up of 24 community members appointed by the City Council and chaired by Jeremy Evans and Arlene Greer. To help ensure efficient effective review and input for all the elements, the GPAC formed subcommittees to review each of them.

The effort is broken into four primary phases, as depicted in Figure 1 below. Phase 1 (Background Analysis + Visioning) was completed late 2024 and Phase 2 (Policy Development + General Plan Amendment) is in progress but nearly complete.

To get to the point of having initial drafts of the General Plan Elements available for review, City staff worked extensively with the GPAC Subcommittees, the GPAC, and the GPUSC. This started with the review of existing conditions and background analysis reports for each element. These documents are considered a “snapshot in time” to identify current condition in Newport Beach under each topical area as well as what needs to be addressed from a State requirement standpoint. Each subcommittee then worked on identifying a potential refresh for the individual elements and helped to create “ideas to support” them. These ideas were shared with the community through digital engagement on the City’s website for the effort (<https://www.newportbeachca.gov/gpupdate>), as well as at community workshops.

Based on the feedback received, City staff alongside consultant Dudek refined the ideas shared as actual goals and accompanying policy statements in furtherance of each. The draft goals and policies were then shared with internal City staff from various departments for review prior to finalizing them as initial draft elements.

These initial drafts are now being reviewed by the individual responsible Subcommittee, as well as the full GPAC and the GPUSC prior to being shared with the City’s boards, commissions, and committees for further input. After they are shared, City staff will begin to advertise the drafts for additional public input from the broader community. Ultimately, the drafts will be refined and shared back to the boards, commissions, and committees for consideration of support.
